

Broken Prices FOR Broken Lots.

You can supply your immediate needs—r buy for next summer—with equal success.

If economy is an object, this is the best time to buy.

Assortments are somewhat broken—but the lessened prices more than make up for the lessened quantities.

$5.00 for men's suits—"odds and ends" that sold for $8, $10, $12 & $15.

$6.50 for men's blue and black serge suits. Our famous $10.00 grade.

59c for silk bosom shirts, plain and fancy—formerly $1.00.

79c for our best $1.25 madras and silk-bosom shirts.

Everything else summerish—straw hats, underwear, hosiery, etc., marked lower than similar grades ever sold for before.

EISENMANBROS.
COR. 7TH AND E

SLAIN AT HYATTSVILLE

A Negro Kills His Companion With a Shotgun.

The Crime Follows a Dispute Over the Proceeds of a Crap Game—The Murderer Makes His Escape—His Home in This City—Local Police Are Looking for the Fugitive.

William Dorsey, colored, twenty-seven years old, was murdered near Hyattsville about 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Edward, alias "Eggy," Gallaway, also colored. The murder was the result of a quarrel over a game of "craps." Dorsey and Gallaway were playing the game at the home of the former, when a dispute arose as to the outcome of a "peep." Dorsey claimed that he had won and Gallaway disputed it.

The money in question was lying on the floor and Dorsey picked it up. Gallaway demanded that it be given him and his demand not being considered left the place swearing vengeance. Later he returned with a double-barreled shotgun. Dorsey was not expecting trouble and paid no attention to the approach of Gallaway, who, without warning, raised his gun within a few feet of his victim and discharged both barrels at his head.

The man fell to the ground with the top of his head blown off, and Gallaway, after looking at his victim for a few moments, walked away from the scene and disappeared. He soon realized that the shot had been heard and seeing persons approaching, he fled.

Every effort was made to apprehend the murderer, but without success, and the information of the crime was telephoned to the local police with a request that a lookout be kept for Gallaway. When the news of the crime reached headquarters Acting Inspector Carter at once communicated it to all the precincts with orders that all entrances to the city be carefully watched. Instructions were given to send the mounted men from the outlying precincts to all roads along which the murderer might pass. Lieutenant Butler, of the Ninth precinct, and Kenney, of the Eighth precinct, in person took charge of their men and within a short time a perfect blockade had been formed. The Hyattsville authorities were of the opinion that Gallaway would come to this city, and as the home of the man is in Madison street, between Sixth and Seventh, M and N streets nearest the police accepted the theory and kept a watch on the place.

The police of the Second precinct learned upon inquiry that a brother of Gallaway had visited the house in Madison street and informed the wife of the murderer of what had happened. The brother was at Madison street at the time of the murder.

THE ANTI-TRUST LEAGUE.

Judge Groat Tells of the Strike in Cleveland.

The District of Columbia branch of the American Anti-Trust League held an enthusiastic meeting at the headquarters of the organization, 1225 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, last night, and plans and methods whereby combinations and monopolies might be removed from the city were discussed at length. A large number of members were present, and several interesting addresses were delivered. H. B. Martin, the national secretary of the organization, acted as chairman. It was decided to hold a public meeting on Thursday next, at 8 p. m., in Union Veterans' League Hall, 559 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, for the purpose of arousing the interest in the war against the trusts. The meeting will be addressed by able speakers who are well acquainted with the situation. Among those already secured are: Judge George A. Groat, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Judge W. B. Fleming, of Kentucky. Hon. M. L. Lockwood, of Pennsylvania, will also be present.

The names of fifteen applicants were favorably voted upon and the reports show that the new organization is rapidly

MUNYON'S HEALTH DRINK.

ALL WASHINGTON IS TALKING ABOUT IT.

IF YOUR DRUGGIST HAS RUN OUT
LEAVE AN ORDER FOR A VIAL

He is waiting for a new supply.
THE DEMAND IS ENORMOUS.

One Tablet; Will Cure
A Little Water; HEADACHE and
That's the Drink INDIGESTION.
Four Flavors: Blue Orange, Kola,
Wild Cherry, Strawberry.

Put up in handy vials; easy to carry around; 10 tablets, 10 cents; 15 tablets, 25 cents; at all druggists, or sent by mail from 623 15th st. n.w.

MUNYON'S DOCTORS ARE FREE.

FIVE MORE REGIMENTS

Plans for a Reserve Volunteer Force Being Made.

The Organizations Now Nearly Completed to Be Rushed to the Orient as Fast as Possible—The Governors of States to Recommend Men for Line Officers' Commissions.

At least five volunteer regiments are to be raised for service in the Philippines in addition to the ten regiments now organizing in this country and the two infantry and one cavalry regiments being formed under General Otis' direction in Manila. Complete plans are being made at the War Department for the transportation and equipment of several regiments in addition to the number already ordered.

The determination to provide for an increased number of volunteer organizations was reached about a week ago, the Secretary of War being of the opinion that there should be a reserve force of several regiments which could be held in this country, equipped and drilled, and be in good condition for active service should the situation in the Philippines indicate that more troops were needed than the 50,000 now authorized for the Philippine army.

The present plan of the department contemplates the formation of five more volunteer regiments as soon as the ten being organized are fully equipped and the regiments in the Philippines are well established. The efforts of the War Department officials are concentrated on fully organizing and equipping the volunteers already authorized, and on securing a sufficient number of recruits in this country to fill the ten regiments in this country, but recruiting will continue until there are enough men to fill the volunteer regiments now being formed in the islands. Orders have been issued directing that four hundred of the recruits now at Columbus Barracks, Ohio, be sent out on delay to Manila to be assigned to the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh Infantry.

Other recruits for the same purpose will be ordered to the Philippines as rapidly as they can be recruited. Equipment and drilling. This will continue until the Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh Infantry, and Eleventh Cavalry have received their full quota. At the same time, the other volunteer infantry organizations will be drilled and put in shape in this country. The first of these regiments to sail for Manila will probably be the Thirty-first Infantry under Colonel Pettit, now at Fort Thomas, Ky. It is expected that this regiment will be ready for embarkation early in next month, and it will be followed rapidly by the other organizations.

It is learned at the War Department that the work of recruiting the additional five regiments is being directed by the Inspector General to have each of the volunteer regiments thoroughly inspected as to their condition and equipment before their departure for the Philippines. To provide officers for the additional volunteer organizations, Secretary Root has decided to prepare a reserve list of men who are to be recruited by the Governors of the States. It is claimed that the Governors of the States have had excellent opportunity to judge of good men who will make a valuable addition to the ranks of the United States army.

It is the determination of the Secretary of War to secure the best material for these regiments and the greatest care will be taken in their equipment. Secretary Root issued orders yesterday directing the Inspector General to have each of the volunteer regiments thoroughly inspected as to their condition and equipment before their departure for the Philippines. To provide officers for the additional volunteer organizations, Secretary Root has decided to prepare a reserve list of men who are to be recruited by the Governors of the States. It is claimed that the Governors of the States have had excellent opportunity to judge of good men who will make a valuable addition to the ranks of the United States army.

When the States asking them to name two men, whose names will be placed on a reserve list for appointment as officers.

When the proper time is reached for their formation, this list will be of officers only. The colonels, lieutenant colonels, and majors will be selected by the Secretary of War from the list.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Governor Roosevelt Will Speak at the Opening Meeting.

The Ohio Republican gubernatorial campaign will be inaugurated at Akron Saturday afternoon, August 23, with Governor Roosevelt, of New York, as chief speaker. Col. Charles L. Dick, Secretary of the Republican National Committee and acting chairman of the Ohio campaign, will be the principal speaker at the opening meeting.

As soon as Colonel Dick received this acceptance for Ohio to arrange the necessary details, Judge George K. Nash, the nominee for Governor, will also speak. Heretofore it has been the custom of the Ohio Republican party to hold meetings at two or three places, but this year they will devote all their energies to the Akron affair.

This action of Governor Roosevelt in accepting the invitation to speak in Ohio has already caused a good deal of comment, because it is taken as an indication that the Governor is not above listening to suggestions looking to his acceptance of the second place on the ticket with McKinley next year. It is suggested that as Vice President Hobart's health is very poor he may decline to accept a second nomination. McKinley's friends would be exceedingly well pleased to have Roosevelt indicate a desire to act as the tail of their kite.

A LIFE-SAVER GETS A MEDAL.

The Navy Department Recognizes the Bravery of the Sea Scout.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Allen has issued an order awarding a medal of honor to Chief Master at Arms John Stokes, of the flagship New York, for assisting in the rescue of a water tender which fell overboard. The occurrence was reported by Commander Chadwick as follows:

I have the honor to bring to the attention of the Command-in-Chief the gallant conduct of John Stokes, chief master at arms, who, upon the falling overboard of the water tender, the ship being then at the coast of Jamaica, near Port Royal, at once went overboard, swam to the water tender, and, with the aid of a life buoy, was able to save the crew. Stokes was taken ashore by the tugboat, the tugboat being then at the coast of Jamaica, near Port Royal, at once went overboard, swam to the water tender, and, with the aid of a life buoy, was able to save the crew. Stokes was taken ashore by the tugboat, the tugboat being then at the coast of Jamaica, near Port Royal, at once went overboard, swam to the water tender, and, with the aid of a life buoy, was able to save the crew.

Respectfully forwarded and urgently recommended that Stokes be given a medal of honor.

The order just issued says:

The department highly commends the gallant conduct of Chief Master at Arms John Stokes and awards a medal of honor to him.

CHAS. H. ALLEN,
Acting Secretary.

Rescued a Crap Game.

Sergeant Elliott and Policemen Pease, Norris, and McCort, of the U. S. street station, raided a barroom at 307 Fourteenth street northwest, conducted by Ellsworth Brice, colored, about 11 o'clock last night, and found a crap game in progress. Brice was locked up on a charge of permitting gambling on his premises, and Washington Williams, Frederick Hedge, and Henry P. Claxton, all colored, who were found in the place, were taken into custody as witnesses. Brice will be arraigned in court this morning.

There Are Only Three.

Ask for any one of them and you surely will get the same one. The only one that you have the inclination for drinking beer. Heine's, Beck's, and Kaiser can be had in bottles by phoning 634, Arlington Bottling Co.

NOISY CROWDS IN PARIS.

(Continued from First Page.)

It is well known that his examination of General Mercier today would have been merciless. Maitre Demange is now carefully guarded.

The effect of today's tragic event on public sentiment is strange to Anglo-American perceptions. The news of the shooting was received with absolute sangfroid. A prominent officer who is not involved in the Dreyfus case, asked nonchalantly where Labori had been shot. When informed he replied with an shrug of the shoulders, "Oh, that's nothing," and such seems to represent the attitude of the Rennes public. One now wonders what will be the next move of Dreyfus' enemies.

Story of the Assault.

Now that the smoke of the assassin's pistol has cleared away it is comparatively an easy task to gain a just understanding of the assault. The circumstances of the shooting as explained by Labori himself, Colonel Picquart, the latter's brother-in-law, M. Gast, and other witnesses, would make it appear that M. Labori, accompanied by Mme. Labori, Colonel Picquart, and M. Gast left the Labori temporary residence at 5 o'clock and strolled leisurely along the road leading to the Lycee, the building in which the momentous trial is progressing. The Labori residence is in the suburbs of Rennes and the walk to the scene of the trial requires usually about fifteen minutes. The roadway connecting the two points is rather a lonely one and winds along the bank of the river Vilaine. About midway between the residence and the Lycee that river flows under a bridge known locally as St. George's Bridge. As the party approached this place, Mme. Labori exclaimed that she had forgotten her ticket of admission to the court room. She hastened back to get it, while the three men mentioned lingered till she should return. They strolled at times very slowly in the direction of the bridge.

The Shot Fired.

At the point of attack the road is bounded on the one side by the river and on the other by an open field. Between the roadway and the field there grows a hedge. A man lay concealed behind this growth of summer green. Mme. Labori was seen returning with her ticket, and the men again paused till she might come up. M. Labori turned his back to the hedge. There was a puff of smoke, a jet of scarlet flame, and a sharp report. With a groan, M. Labori sank to the dusty road. Colonel Picquart knelt at once by his side. The stricken man implored the colonel to follow his assassin, who at that moment was making his flight across the field.

Colonel Picquart and M. Gast climbed the hedge and made a vain pursuit of the fugitive. They are heavy men and unused to great physical activity. Several peasants had by that time joined in the chase, and Colonel Picquart and M. Gast returned to where the wounded man lay. It is reported that as Colonel Picquart went over the hedge he shouted: "Oh, for my sword!"

Several laborers, who at the time of the shooting were discharging a large at a dry dock close by, made after the criminal. All this happened before Mme. Labori could reach the spot. She did not know that her husband had been shot till she entered the group that surrounded him. Before she reached him, however, M. Labori said to the onlookers, "If I die before my wife comes, tell her that my last thought was of her."

When Mme. Labori knelt by his side he, in a cheery voice, asked her to uncross his legs, which were doubled beneath him. She did so and he then asked her to move his limbs as his spine had not been touched. When his legs were straightened out he said that he felt much relief. He lay with his head in his wife's lap until a stretcher arrived.

When Maitre Demange arrived from the court room a little later, M. Labori greeted him cheerfully, saying: "Good morning, my dear colleague. This is the best play that could possibly have been made for Dreyfus."

A Pathetic Scene.

It was a pathetic scene between husband and wife there in the dusty road by the river Vilaine before the arrival of a stretcher. Mme. Labori, who was an English woman before her marriage, fanned her husband with one hand and lovingly caressed him with the other. It has been reported here that while the lawyer lay stricken he said to his wife: "I may die from this, but Dreyfus is saved."

A New Trial May Be Asked.

London, Aug. 15.—The Rennes correspondent of the "Chronicle" reports that M. Labori's assault has been arrested on the road between the villages of Saint Laurent and Saint Gervaise, but this is probably an echo of Gallon. A despatch to the Central News from Paris says that a man named Vallée, resembling the description of the criminal, has been arrested at Montmartre.

Maiden Labori an English Girl.

Paris, Aug. 14.—M. Labori's wife was formerly Maggie Okey, an English girl. She is a brilliant pianist and performed at the Covent Garden promenade concerts in 1882. Subsequently she made a tour of Austria and Germany, where she met the pianist Paderewski, whom she married. Later she obtained a divorce from him. After public performances in London Mme. Labori appeared in Paris and met M. Labori, who was then hardly known to the public, but was a rising lawyer. She has not appeared in public since her marriage to M. Labori.

DIED.

DIEDERICH—Departed this life on Sunday, August 13, 1899, at 4 a. m., ALICE M. DIEDERICH, wife of George W. Diederich, at her late residence, 1514 Tenth street northwest, (Victoria and Corpus Christi, Tex., and New York City papers please copy.)

THE LABORER'S ACCOUNT.

A laborer, by name Patoux, was an eyewitness to the shooting, and to M. Henion, sub-chief of the secret police, he gave this description of the assailant:

"Twenty-five or thirty years old; flat, peaked hat; dressed like a workman; blue blouse."

Just as the clock struck the hour for beginning the proceedings of the Dreyfus court-martial, M. Tausny, a Paris press reporter, rushed into the hall, crying: "A doctor, a doctor; M. Labori has been wounded." Physicians who were present hurried out and rumors that M. Labori was seriously hurt flew fast. The court entered the hall ten minutes past the usual time of opening the trial, and M. Demange at once told the president, Colonel Jouanet, that his colleague had been hurt. The president at once ordered a suspension of proceedings.

In the mean time, M. Demange's son came into court and reported that the ball which struck M. Labori in the back, was embedded in the muscles of the loin and that the wound was not so serious as was at first believed. The sitting of the court was resumed at 7:30, after M. Demange's announcement of M. Labori's condition.

There have been many recitals of incidents alleged to have been connected with the shooting. It has been said that several persons passing along the road saw M. Labori fall but paid no heed to the wounded man nor gave chase to the assailant. Another story is to the effect that a citizen filled the pockets of the prostrate man. Little credence is given to these reports.

A PLOT FOR REVOLUTION.

Alleged Plans of Conspirators Stopped by the Police.

London, Aug. 15.—A despatch to the "Daily News," from Paris, says that the attack on M. Labori was only the tail of the storm which would have swept over Rennes had the plot that was hatched in Paris succeeded. The plot was no laughing matter. It was to have ripened into revolutionary demonstrations on the boulevard Sunday.

The conspirators were to make bonfires of the Dreyfusite newspapers in the streets and burn the kiosks where they are sold. This would have resulted in the calling out of the troops. The latter, however, were to reverse arms and refuse to act. After the scene of the shooting, the conspirators were to help the movement. Telephone messages were to be sent to different points where members of the League of Patriots were assembled. They were to rush to the Republican and Socialist newspaper offices, seize their staffs, and hold them prisoners. Simultaneously rushes were to be made on the Palace of the Elysee, and the Ministries of the Interior and Posts and Telegraphs, when news would have been wired to the provinces that Paris had revolted.

A War Minister, nominated by the Duke of Orleans, was to replace General de Galliffet. Two days previous to the intended execution of the plot M. Lepine, prefect of police, received full information regarding it. The conspirators are now under arrest and ought to be tried by the Senate sitting as a high court.

A SAD BLOW FOR DREYFUS.

The Attack on Labori Regarded as a Great Calamity.

London, Aug. 15.—The "Times" correspondent at Rennes says: "For reasons which I am bound not to state the attack on M. Labori is not merely untoward, but is a national calamity. There is a terribly suggestive timeliness in the crime. Were the fastest continuing against Dreyfus they could not have aimed among mortals at more effective agent of their designs than the unknown criminal. It was a master stroke. The one man indispensable is suddenly thrown hors de combat at the moment when the most was expected of him."

"What took place today in court, the confrontation of Caimier-Perier and Mercier, the so-called examination of the latter and recognition of the evidence of the Ministers of War and of Marine would have occupied but for the crime at least three or four days. I do not exaggerate the general impression when I affirm that, with Labori absent, the bottom seemed to have dropped out of the defence. The examination of General Mercier was one of the weakest exhibitions of forensic ingenuity and presence of mind which it is possible to conceive. Mercier, Cavaignac, Billot, and the president held the floor, as did their predecessors, in the trial of 1894. The prisoner was left almost without defence."

"Maitre Demange is no doubt a great lawyer, and today it may well be that he was under depression of the terrible event of the morning, but his whole conception of his role would seem to be to reply to Dreyfus' adversaries on their own ground. He has yet, for a thousand reasons, the qualities of Labori, his astonishing readiness of resource, his quick-wittedness, admirable enthusiasm and courage, the range of his eloquence, his unrivalled knowledge of the case, and above all his incomparable power of cross-examination, are qualities which Demange does not possess. The latter's formal, old-style methods stood in the way."

"Mercier, Cavaignac, and all the adversaries of Dreyfus, have found in the terrible character of the Dreyfus case, which in the drama solves problems with a timeliness that has become proverbial."

A Reported Arrest.

London, Aug. 15.—The Rennes correspondent of the "Chronicle" reports that M. Labori's assault has been arrested on the road between the villages of Saint Laurent and Saint Gervaise, but this is probably an echo of Gallon. A despatch to the Central News from Paris says that a man named Vallée, resembling the description of the criminal, has been arrested at Montmartre.

A New Trial May Be Asked.

London, Aug. 15.—The Rennes correspondent of the "Chronicle" reports that M. Labori's assault has been arrested on the road between the villages of Saint Laurent and Saint Gervaise, but this is probably an echo of Gallon. A despatch to the Central News from Paris says that a man named Vallée, resembling the description of the criminal, has been arrested at Montmartre.

Maiden Labori an English Girl.

Paris, Aug. 14.—M. Labori's wife was formerly Maggie Okey, an English girl. She is a brilliant pianist and performed at the Covent Garden promenade concerts in 1882. Subsequently she made a tour of Austria and Germany, where she met the pianist Paderewski, whom she married. Later she obtained a divorce from him. After public performances in London Mme. Labori appeared in Paris and met M. Labori, who was then hardly known to the public, but was a rising lawyer. She has not appeared in public since her marriage to M. Labori.

DIED.

DIEDERICH—Departed this life on Sunday, August 13, 1899, at 4 a. m., ALICE M. DIEDERICH, wife of George W. Diederich, at her late residence, 1514 Tenth street northwest, (Victoria and Corpus Christi, Tex., and New York City papers please copy.)

THE LABORER'S ACCOUNT.

A laborer, by name Patoux, was an eyewitness to the shooting, and to M. Henion, sub-chief of the secret police, he gave this description of the assailant:

"Twenty-five or thirty years old; flat, peaked hat; dressed like a workman; blue blouse."

Just as the clock struck the hour for beginning the proceedings of the Dreyfus court-martial, M. Tausny, a Paris press reporter, rushed into the hall, crying: "A doctor, a doctor; M. Labori has been wounded." Physicians who were present hurried out and rumors that M. Labori was seriously hurt flew fast. The court entered the hall ten minutes past the usual time of opening the trial, and M. Demange at once told the president, Colonel Jouanet, that his colleague had been hurt. The president at once ordered a suspension of proceedings.

In the Mean Time.

In the mean time, M. Demange's son came into court and reported that the ball which struck M. Labori in the back, was embedded in the muscles of the loin and that the wound was not so serious as was at first believed. The sitting of the court was resumed at 7:30, after M. Demange's announcement of M. Labori's condition.

There have been many recitals of incidents alleged to have been connected with the shooting. It has been said that several persons passing along the road saw M. Labori fall but paid no heed to the wounded man nor gave chase to the assailant. Another story is to the effect that a citizen filled the pockets of the

The Saks Stores

Pennsylvania Avenue and Seventh Street.

TURNING YOUR DIMES INTO DOLLARS

and thereby adding the temptation of very, VERY low prices to that of sterling quality—making a bargain time of most extraordinary proportions. Not unselfishly—for we are closing the record of summer selling—and we want the merchandise side of the page a total blank.

New Prices for the Wash Goods

We make the final cuts. We simply won't carry an inch of either the Imported or the Domestic Novelties over for next season. We are going to clear them all out now.

3 1/2c
A Yard.

9 1/2c
A Yard.

For choice of any of the Domestic Dimities, Batistes, and Lawns—and they are in very choice patterns and colorings; quite as exclusive as the Imported, and you'll recall their having sold at 12 1/2c, 15c, and 18c a yard.

For choice of all Imported Organzies, Dimities, Lawns, and Piques that have been selling up to 50c a yard. Representative styles, leading designs, ideal shading, and sheer and fine as the foreign weaving always is.

China Silk Waists.

100 of them, in a wide range of colors, and each embroidered all over in polka dot and bow knot patterns. White and colored effects. The Waists, themselves, have been made up in the very latest style and are in very fine quality of silk. The strains of a manufacturer makes the price, instead of $7.50 that is the actual value—only—

Shirt Waists, 29c.

A remarkable choice is offered when you consider that in the lot are offered Waists worth up to $1. Every one of this season's design and make—choice colorings and perfect fitting. Collars and cuffs to match the Waists. A small table holds all that are left.

$3.95 29c

Ladies' Wash Dresses.

Probably the last word about these trim and comely Gowns. The two divisions into which we have categorized all that remain of the Fancy Organzies, Dimities, Batistes, etc., are making short work of them. How you can appreciate artistic effect, intrinsic value, pitance price—and let these offerings survive a day longer is hard to understand. We don't believe you will.

The Suits up to $10 at $3.25

The Suits from $10 to $17.50 at $5.00

Men's Furnishings—Every Item a Special.

Percale Negligee Shirts, in very select patterns, some with collars and cuffs attached and some with separate cuffs; they are regular 24s Shirts, for..... 39c

Ballgarigue Shirts and Drawers, the regular 36c and 50c grades, for choice at..... 23c

Choice of a big variety of Fancy Silk Neckwear that belongs in with the regular 50c line; as assorted shapes and patterns, for..... 25c

Half Hose, in fancy effects, stylish and good quality for 50c a pair. Special..... 19c

Lot of Men's Half Hose, in fast colors and regular making; worth like a pair. Now..... 9c

Bandanna Scarfs, in English Square shape; several combinations of colors and variety of patterns; two for the value of one..... 2 for 25c

Lot of Fancy Silk Club Ties, good patterns and good quality of silk..... 6 for 25c

Waist Taffeta.

Here's where we've bought a bargain—just because it would give us a 30-inch Black Taffeta Silk, of perfect finish and good quality for waist wear and 75c a yard retailing—that we could offer you as a very special at..... 49c a yard.

STEEL SCISSORS, small lots of the lines that have been 15c. and 25c a pair. Made of genuine steel, and regular making. Choice..... 10c

OLIVE OIL SOAP, that warranted pure and dry Bath Soap, that comes in four-pound bars and sells at 50c a bar. For a special we shall sell it today at..... 25c

LADIES' Polka Dot Hose, black with White or Red Dots; fast colors. These are the Hose that fashion has put forward as the last-of-the-season novelty, and are sold in 25c value. For all that we will own 33 dozen to offer at..... 14c

CHILDREN'S Full, Regular made Hose, Hermsdorf fast black, with spiked heels and toes and double knees. Time to be on the look-out for a good school Hose, and here it is: Worth 12c a pair, for..... 12c

LADIES' Gause Vest, with high neck and short sleeves; finely finished with French neck effects. at 35c they were the price purchase all season. Now to close them out..... 19c

HAND Scrubs, being an importer's sample line, showing twenty different styles